5. Pakistan's Exports Potentials of Goods Exports to Africa

This study uses two alternative methods for identifying potential exports to Africa. The first approach is the indicative exports potentials. Under this approach, products of potential exports are identified by comparing the domestic economy's global exports to the partner's economy global imports and then subtracting the domestic economy's current exports to the trading partner from minimum of the two global quantities – global exports of the domestic economy and global imports of the partner's economy. A large difference indicates high indicative potential and untapped exports. The estimated potential exports obtained through this method give an indication of the possible increase in the domestic economy's exports. They are also useful for examining the bilateral trade pattern and trade complementarity between the trade partners.

The scientific and statistical method of identifying potential exports products and economies with high potential exports is the Gravity Model – a widely applied and globally recognized approach for predicting of the pattern of bilateral trade between economies. The Gravity Model is applied in two forms; first – to identify the partner economies having potential exports (potential trade) and with which enhancement of the bilateral trade may yield gains to the partners. Second – gravity model may also be applied to identify product with potential exports to the partners' economies. This study uses the gravity model to identify the countries with potential exports of Pakistan.

5.1. Indicative Exports Potential

Pakistan's exports potentials to the Africa continent are identified in three stages: First – identifying exports products with potential exports to Africa (as whole region). Second – exports potentials to Regional Trade Agreements/Economic Communities/Economic Groups and: Third – exports potentials to Pakistan's major trading partners in the Africa region. The three stages of exports potential are discussed below.

5.1.1. Exports Potentials to the Africa Continent

Products of exports potential to the Africa region are identified by comparing of Pakistan's global exports to Africa region and Africa region's global imports. Exports lines with potential exports, i.e. with significant Pakistan's global exports and significant Africa's global imports are shortlisted as exports lines with Pakistan's potential exports to Africa. The analysis is based on HS (6) level of products aggregation. To shortlist, Pakistan’s exports lines with potential exports to Africa, a minimum level of Pakistan’s global exports and Africa’s global imports is set up. The lines with exports and import values above the minimum threshold level are picked up. The said criteria are given as follows.

1. Pakistan’s global exports in the concerned lines (HS 6) > US $ 100, 000
2. Africa’s global imports in the concerned lines (HS 6) > US $ 100, 000.

Using the above criteria, around 1361 tariff lines at HS (6) are shortlisted with potential exports to Africa. Exports lines with potential exports are presented in ANNEX – 1. The shortlisted lines at HS (6) are aggregated into sectors (HS 2). Pakistan’s exports potentials to Africa at HS 2 (sectors) are given in ANNEX – (2).

Pakistan’s top export sector with potential exports to Africa is ‘other made up textile articles.’ It includes total 44 lines (HS 6). Top lines of this sector include bedlinen of cotton, toilet linen and kitchen linen, bedlinen of textile, bedlinen, knitted or crocheted, floor cloths, dishcloths, dusters and similar cleaning cloths, tents of textile materials, toilet linen and kitchen linen of textile materials, curtains, incl. drapes, and interior blinds and bedlinen of man-made fibres etc.

Pakistan’s other top exports sector to Africa with potential exports is ‘cotton’. It includes total 104 lines (HS 6) – 7.6 % of the total shortlisted exports lines. Top cotton lines with potential exports include single cotton yarn, denim, plain woven fabrics of cotton, woven fabrics of cotton, multiple "folded" or cabled cotton yarn, single cotton yarn etc. The other top exports sectors with potentials exports are depicted in the above Table.

To identify the trade pattern and potential exports of Pakistan to various Africa's RTAs, this study also identifies potential exports lines to Africa regional trade agreements (regional community groups). They are depicted in the following section.

5.1.2. Pakistan's export potentials to African TRAs

This section discusses Pakistan's exports potentials to the African Economic Community Groups. The criteria given in section 5.1.1 is also applied for shortlisting lines with Pakistan's potential exports to Africa's RTAs.

5.1.2.1. Exports Potentials to CEMAC

This study identifies 884 Pakistan exports products (HS 6) with potential exports to CEMAC region. The shortlisted HS 6 products with potential exports are aggregated into 80 sectors. The sectoral exports potential for CEMAC economies are given in ANNEX – 3. The top export sector in terms of value of potential exports is cereal (rice) followed by salt; sulphur; earths and stone; plastering – including 19 products at HS 6. The next top exports sector with potential exports to CEMAC economies is 'other made-up textile articles; sets; worn clothing' – including 41 HS 6 lines of potential exports. Further detail of Pakistan's top sectoral potential exports is depicted in the following Table.

As evident from the above Table, the largest exports potentials of Pakistan to CEMAC is other made up textile articles (bed lines, toilet lines and kitchen lines, bed lines of textile materials, floor cloths etc.), sugar and sugar confectionary (cane or beat sugar, sugar confectionary, shewing gum and Glucose in solid form and glucose syrup) and cereals – including wholly and semi milled rice, broken rice, maize and wheat etc.

5.1.2.2. Export potentials to COMESA

The study identifies 653 exports products at HS 6 with potential exports to COMESA economies. Top exports products with potential exports include semi milled or wholly milled rice, instruments and appliance used in medical and veterinary sciences, cane or beat sugar, Portland cement, broken rice, medium oil and preparations, denim and petroleum oils etc. The shortlisted HS 6 lines with potential exports are aggregated into 80 sectors (HS 2). Pakistan’s sectoral potential exports to COMESA is given in ANNEX – 4. Pakistan’s top sectoral exports potential to COMESA is cereals, followed by cotton (81 HS lines), articles of apparels (55 lines at HS 6) and other made – up textiles and articles (37 liens at HS 6). Detail of Pakistan’s sectoral potential exports is depicted in the Table below.

5.1.2.3. Export potentials to EAC economies

The study identifies around 1000 exports products (HS 6) with exports potentials to EAC economies. The top exports products include cane or beet sugar and chemically pure sucrose, medium oils and preparations, instruments and appliances used in medical, surgical or veterinary sciences, wheat or muslin flour, petroleum oils and oils obtained from bituminous minerals, crude and Portland cement etc. The shortlisted HS 6 exports products are aggregated into 89 sectors. Export sectors with potential exports to EAC economies are given in ANNEX – 5.

Pakistan’s top exports sector to Africa with potential exports in terms of volume of indicative exports potential is cereal, followed by ‘other made-up textile articles’ – including 41 HS 6 products. The other top sector is the sugar and sugar confectionary, which include 9 HS (6) lines and ‘articles of apparel and clothing accessories, not knitted or crocheted’ – including 66 lines at HS (6). Further detail of Pakistan’s top export sectors is given in the following Table.

5.1.2.4. Export potentials to ECOWAS Economies

The study identifies more than 1100 lines (HS 6) with potential exports to ECOWAS economies. The top products include ‘semi-milled or wholly milled rice’, cane or beet sugar and chemically pure sucrose, Portland cement, broken rice, instruments and appliances used in medical, surgical or veterinary sciences, petroleum oils and oils obtained from bituminous minerals, undenatured ethyl alcohol, wheat or muslin flour and paper and paperboard. Based on the shortlisted HS 6 lines for exports potentials, the study also identifies 91 sectors with potential exports, which are given in ANNEX – 6. Top sectors with potential exports in terms of value of indicative exports potentials is cereal, other made up textiles, sugar and sugar confectionary, fish and crustaceans, molluscs and other aquatic invertebrates and optical, photographic, cinematographic. Detail of Pakistan’s top sectoral potential exports is given in the following Table.

5.1.2.5. Export potentials to SACU Economies

The study identifies more than 1200 products (HS 6) with potential exports to SACU economies. the top exports products at HS 6 with potential exports to SACU include semi-milled or wholly milled rice, instruments and appliances used in medical, cane or beet sugar and chemically pure sucrose, men's or boys' trousers, t-shirts, singlets and other vests of cotton and women's or girls' trousers. The shortlisted HS 6 products of potential exports are aggregated into 92 sectors, which are given in ANNEX – 7.

Top exports sectors of Pakistan’s with potential exports to SACU include cereals, Articles of apparel and clothing accessories (61, 62) – including 173 lines (HS 6), Sugars and sugar confectionery – including 10 lines and articles of leather; saddlery and harness, which include 16 lines. Detail of Pakistan’s top sectoral exports with potential exports is given in the following Table.

5.1.2.6. Export potentials to SADC Economies

The study identifies around 1300 HS 6 lines with potential exports (HS products having more than 100, 000 US $ indicative exports potentials) to SADC economies. Top exports products (HS 6) with exports potential to SADC include semi-milled or wholly milled rice, instruments and appliances used in medical, surgical or veterinary sciences, cane or beet sugar and chemically pure sucrose, men's or boys' trousers, T-shirts, singlets and other vests of cotton, Portland cement and women's or girls' trousers etc. The shortlisted HS 6 products are aggregated into sectoral exports. Sectoral exports with potential exports to SADC are given in ANNEX – 8.

Like other Africa RTAs, Pakistan’s top sectoral exports with potential exports to SADC include cereals, articles of apparel and clothing accessories, other made-up textile articles; sets; worn clothing and worn textile articles; rags, cotton, sugar and sugar confectionary, optical, photographic, cinematographic and salt; sulphur; earths and stone. 5.1.2.7. Export potentials to WAEMU Economies

The study identifies more than 900 HS 6 lines with potential exports to WAEMU economies. Top HS 6 products with potential exports to WAEMU include, semi-milled or wholly milled rice, whether or not polished or glazed, cane or beet sugar and chemically pure sucrose, Portland cement, medium oils and preparations, petroleum oils and oils obtained from bituminous minerals, wheat or muslin flour and medicaments consisting of mixed or unmixed products. The shortlisted HS 6 lines are aggregated into 84 sectors, the detail of which is given in ANNEX – 9.

Pakistan's top exports sectors with potential exports to WAEMU economies include cereals, fish and crustaceans (14 lines HS 6), salt and Sulphur (18 lines), sugar and sugar confectionery (7 lines) and Other made-up textile articles; sets (38 lines).

5.1.3. Pakistan's Export Potentials to Major African's Economies

5.1.3.1. Pakistan's Exports Potentials to South Africa

The study identifies around 1200 tariff lines (HS 6) with potential exports to South Africa. Top lines include semi-milled or wholly milled rice, men's or boys' ensembles of cotton, single cotton yarn, bedlinen of cotton and toilet linen and kitchen linen. Like top exports sectors in terms of no of tariff lines include machinery, mechanical appliances (131 lines), articles of apparel and clothing accessories (88 tariff lines), Articles of apparel and clothing accessories, not knitted or crocheted (81 lines), cotton (69 lines) and Plastics and articles thereof (44 lines). Details of Pakistan's sectoral exports potential to South Africa is given in ANNEX – (10).

The 'other made-up textile articles' (HS 63) is top exports sector of Pakistan with potential exports to South Africa. Pakistan's top competitors' economies of supplying this sectoral export to South Africa are China that holds 43 % share in the South Africa's imports market, India (13 % share in total Africa imports of this sector) and Swaziland – holding 7 % share in South Africa's imports of this sector. Pakistan's next top exports sector, to South Africa with potential exports is cotton. The competitors' economies are China, Zambia and India. China holds the largest share, i.e. 31 %, followed by Zambia (9 %) and then India (8 %). Details of Pakistan’s other top exports sectors with potential exports to South Africa and Pakistan’s competitors’ economies in South Africa is given in the following Table.

5.1.3.2. Pakistan’s Exports Potential to Kenya

This study identifies 846 export lines (HS 6) with potential exports to Kenya. The top exports lines include medium oil and preparations, cane or beat sugar, medicaments, instruments and appliances used in medical/surgical sciences and telephones for cellular networks etc.

Likewise, Pakistan's top exports sector to Kenya with potential exports is cereals. Top exports products of cereals is semi-milled or wholly-milled rice. Pakistan also has potential exports to Kenya in exports of wheat and maize. Pakistan's next top export sector with potential exports is sugar and sugar confectionary. Top exports products (HS 6) of this sector include:

- Cane or beat sugar and chemically pure sucrose (170199)
- Glucose in solid form and glucose syrup 9170230)
- Sugar confectionary (179490)

5.2. Pakistan's Export Potentials to Africa: A Gravity Model Approach

5.2.1. Introduction

The proliferation of regional integrations across the world has inspired most of the world economies to integrate their economies with the global markets through international trade. This strategy has led to the establishment of various trade agreements. Presently, Pakistan also is the member of various bilateral and regional trade agreements such as Pakistan-China, Pakistan-Malaysia and Pakistan-Sri Lanka free trade agreements, ECO and SAFTA etc. However, Pakistan's achievements are not up to the mark.

There are several reasons of why Pakistan's trade performance is not appreciable. It is argued that poor market diversification and narrow exports base are the top major reasons of poor performance of Pakistan's bilateral trade. According to Pakistan Economic Survey (2016-17), share of Pakistan's top 10 trade partners in total exports is more than 60 percent. These include USA, China, UAE, Afghanistan, UK, Germany, France, Bangladesh, Italy and Spain. United States remains the top destined region-absorbing 17 percent of Pakistan's exports, followed by China, whose share in total Pakistan's exports is roughly 9 percent and then Afghanistan absorbing around 8 percent of Pakistan's total exports during the same period¹. In addition, Pakistan is still heavily relying on traditional markets – European Union and United States as the export market destination.

As revealed, Pakistan could hardly increase share of exports to the emerging economies (China, India, Afghanistan and ASEAN) from 10 % to 19 % during the span of 14 years (2003-2017). It is also revealed by the above Figure that Pakistan's aggregate exports to emerging economies declined from over 6 billion US $ during 2012 to 4 billion US $ in 2017. In contrast, US and EU have been constantly Pakistan's main export destination.

On the other hand, India exports to emerging economies (China, Afghanistan, Bangladesh and ASEAN) increased from less than 10 billion US $ in 2001 (11 % of global exports) to 55 billion US $ in 2017 (27 % of all exports). In contrast, its share of exports to traditional economies (US and EU) declined from 42 % to 35 % during the same above period. This indicates that Indian has successfully diversified exports market towards new emerging economies (having same consumption pattern and high product complementarity) away from the traditional partners (dealing with traditional product).

The above discussion indicates that Pakistan has constantly been relying on traditional export markets such as Europe and United States as major exports destination regions. Pakistan's pace of diversifying exports markets towards emerging markets is quite slow.

In contrast, global trade of the competitors' economies such India and Bangladesh to the traditional market has been decreasing over the years, however, trade with the emerging economies is increasing. This indicates that the exports market diversification along with transition of exports destination away from traditional markets towards emerging economies significantly contributed to exports performance of the competitors' economies – India, Bangladesh and emerging economies of the Africa continent.

Besides market diversification, market transition and broadening of exports base as a source of exports enhancement, exports performance is also subject to the available productive capacity and more importantly to the trade potentials. Trade agreements and negotiations may be more beneficial if they are concluded with economies with large markets and product complementarity and integration.

The poor exports performance and rising trade deficit have many adverse macroeconomic implications. This has been a challenge for the government and policy makers. Currently, the ministry of commerce (MOC) is working from a number of dimensions in different perspectives to overcome the poor trade performance and the resulting trade deficits. The ministry is working on exploring new markets across the world with the primary focus on Africa, Central Asian Republics (CARs), Middle East and North America regions, where Pakistani exports have diversified demands.

In the above mentioned background, the present study aims to identify the exports destination economies, with whom Pakistan has high potential exports for the proposed market diversification strategy. The specific objectives are as follows.

5.2.2. Objectives of the analysis

1. To investigate the impact of various determinants on Pakistan's exports to its partners' economies.
2. To identify export partners – with significant potential exports of Pakistan for the proposed market diversification strategy for exports enhancement.

For the above analysis, the augmented gravity model. The research findings may be helpful for suggesting guidelines to the government for enhancing exports to focused economies.

5.2.3. Introduction of the Gravity Model

The gravity model is based on the Newton's Law of Universal Gravitation [1687]. This Newton's Law of Gravitation was initially applied by (Pöyhönen, 1963) for the analysis of international trade. The model states that trade between two countries is directly dependent on the size of the two economies-measured by population and GDP of the trade partners. Further, the model states that bilateral trade between two countries is inversely dependent on the distance between the trade destinations-sometime measured by the trade costs. The standard gravity model introduced by Tinbergen (1962) is given by the following equation.

$$X_{ij} = G \frac{M_i^a M_j^b}{D_{ij}^c} \text{-----}(1)$$

Hence in the above equation ' X_{ij} ' stands for the volume of trade between country 'i' and country 'j'. ' M ' stands for masses [often measured by GDPs], while ' D ' shows the distance between the home country and the trade partner. Equation [1] implies that the bilateral trade between country [i] and country [j] is positively [directly] dependent on the masses [i.e. size] of the two economies but inversely related to the distance between the two economies.

Equation [1] can be linearized through the log transformation.

$$\ln X_{ij} = \alpha + \beta \ln Y_i + \gamma \ln Y_j - \delta \ln D_{ij} + \varepsilon_{ij} \text{-----}(2)$$

In the above equation, ' D_{ij} ' shows the difference between the domestic country [i] and partner country [j], while ' ε_{ij} ' is the error term that captures the impact of all the omitted variables.

The above model was further extended to include the adjacency [measured by common border, common colony etc.] and remoteness [measured as trade costs]. The model in this new version is given in the following equations by including the adjacent variable.

$$\ln X_{ij} = \alpha + \beta \ln Y_i + \gamma \ln Y_j - \delta \ln D_{ij} + \theta \text{Adjacent} + \varepsilon_{ij} \text{ --- (3)}$$

Hence in the above equation [Adjacent] is the degree of adjacency of the trade partners i.e. common border, common language and common colony etc. captured by introducing dummies in the gravity model. To capture the impact of the adjacency, we introduce different dummies in the standard gravity model.

5.2.4. Review of Literature

The gravity model is a widely recognized tool, which is used for explaining the international trade behaviour and for undertaking the impact assessment of various trade negotiations. It is also employed for the projection of the bilateral trade flows between economies. There are many research studies that have used the gravity model for evaluating the bilateral trade behaviour of economies. This section summarizes of the available studies on the gravity model. These include the study of ‘Clarete et al, (2000)’ who employed a cross section and panel data to examine the impact of PTAs in the Asia-Pacific region. The main variables included in the model are GDP, distance and population along with the other conventional trade determinants. It is revealed that, the preferential arrangements in the Asia-Pacific regions have led to the expansion of regional and world trade. Rehman (2003) for Bangladesh estimated the gravity model with some augmentations using the panel data. It is revealed by the results that Bangladesh’ bilateral trade is dependent on the size of the trade partners, per capita GNP and trade openness etc. Batra (2004) examined the behaviour of Indian trade and trade potentials by using the augmented gravity model and also the pooled OLS. According to the results, India has the highest trade potentials with the trade partners in the Asia-Pacific region followed by Europe and then the North America. It is also shown that India has the highest potentials for trade expansions with China, the UK, Italy and France.

There are also some research studies, which have undertaken the gravity model analysis for analysing Pakistan’s bilateral trade behaviour and the trade potentials. These include the study of Khan (2000) who by using the gravity model, evaluated the relationship between Pakistan’s bilateral trade and the factors [economic, geographic and cultural] using a moderate sample of 10 trade partner economies. The explanatory variables in the augmented gravity model included real exchange rate [RER], tariffs, distance, product of GNPs, product of per capita GNPs, language and various [i.e. for border and for various trade integrations]. It is shown by the results that all the variables carried their significant coefficients with expected signs expect for the ‘common border dummy’, that revealed a negative impact on the bilateral trade.

Likewise, the State Bank of Pakistan (2005) conducted a sectorial level gravity analysis for Pakistan’s bilateral trade flows with the trade partners’ economies. To estimate the trade potentials for 15 different sectors the study used a long list of explanatory variables including several dummies variables to capture the impact of common border, language, trade integrations and other cultural variables. The findings revealed high trade potentials with India. It is also found that Pakistan has high trade potentials in leather, textile, beverages and chemical etc. [Pakistan’s top exportable].

Gul and Yasin (2011) investigated the trade potentials of Pakistan using a panel data for a sample of trade partners’ economies. The study employed the augmented gravity model comprising of various economic and geographical variables and also various dummies. The findings of the study indicate that Pakistan has the highest trade potential with partners in the Asia-Pacific region (ASEAN) followed by Western Europe, the Middle East, Latin America, and North America for 2001-2005. The maximum trade potential exists for Japan, Sri Lanka, Bangladesh, Malaysia, the Philippines, New Zealand, Norway, Italy, Sweden, and Denmark. The findings also intimate that Pakistan’s trade within SAARC is very low, particularly with India. However, this result should be interpreted with caution, taking into consideration the volume of underground trade

5.2.5. Model and Methodology

5.2.5.1. Gravity Model for Pakistan

To identify the trade potentials of Pakistan, we use the above discussed standard gravity model with few necessary augmentations. The augmented gravity model is given by the following equation.

$$\begin{aligned} \text{Log}(T_{pak,j}) = & \alpha + \beta_1 \text{Log}(GDP_{pak}) + \beta_2 \log(GDP_j) - \beta_3 \log(\text{Dist}_{pak,j}) \\ & + \beta_4 \log(\text{POP}_{pak}) + \beta_5 \log(\text{POP}_j) \\ & + \beta_6 \log(\text{RER}_{pak,j}) + \beta_7 \log(\text{PGDPDIFF}_{pak,j}) + \beta_8 \log(D) + U_{i,j} \quad --(4) \end{aligned}$$

Where,

$T_{Pak,j}$ = Pakistan's Bilateral Exports to j partners

POP_{pak} = Pakistan Total Population

POP_j = Trade partners' aggregate population

$RER_{pak,j}$ = Bilateral Rate Exchange Rate of Pakistan with respect to the trade partners.

$PGDPDIFF_{pak,j}$ = Per Capita GDP differentials-measured as Pakistan's PGDP minus PDGP of the trade partners.

D = It captures various regional and geographical dummies [common language, common border, landlocked, common colony, FTA and PTA].

5.2.5.2. Extended Gravity Model with Different Dummies

The gravity model in equation 4 is augmented with different dummies as follows.

$$\begin{aligned} \log(T_{pak,i}) = & \alpha + \beta_1 \log(GDP_{pak}) + \beta_2 \log(GDP_j) - \beta_3 \log(DIST_{pak,j}) + \beta_4 \log(POP_{pak}) + \\ & \beta_5 \log(POP_j) + \beta_6 \log(RER_{pak,j}) + \beta_7 \log(PGDPDIFF_{pak,j}) + \beta_8 \log(border_{pak,j}) + \\ & \beta_9 \log(lang_{i,j}) + \beta_{10} \log(Comcol_{pak}) + \beta_{11} \log(landlock) + \beta_{12} \log(FTA_{i,j}) + \beta_{13} \log(PTA_{i,jk}) \\ & + (U_{i,j}) \end{aligned} \text{----- (5)}$$

5.2.5.3. Variable Measurement and Sources of DATA

Exports: Bilateral Exports – Pakistan's exports to partners included in the gravity model. Values are measured in US $.

Data Source: Data on exports is obtained from WITS.

Gross Domestic Product (GDP): GDP data of Pakistan and Pakistan's trade partners is measured in current US $ (base year 2010).

Data Source: Data on GDP is taken from World Development Indicator (WDI).

Population: Aggregate Population of Pakistan and its partners included in the gravity model is taken. Value of population is measured in numbers.

Data Source: Population data for Pakistan and for the partners' economies is taken from World Development Indicator (WDI).

Real Exchange Rate: Real Exchange Rate for this study is calculate by the following formula.

$$RER = NER_{pak,j} \times \frac{P^X}{P^W}$$

NER = Bilateral Nominal Exchange Rate [Pakistan's ER against US $ relative the Trade Partners' exchange rate against US $].

Where,

$$NER_{pak,j} = \frac{Pak - Exchange Rate with US $}{Partners' Exchange Rate against US$}$$

P^X = International price of Pakistan's exports [measured as export unit value of Pakistan]

P^W = Trade Partners' Domestic Prices [measured as import unit value of the trade partners]

Distance: The variable 'distance' is the distance between capitals of reporting (Pakistan in this case) and partners' economies (Pakistan's trade partners included in the gravity panel). It is measured in Kilometres.

Source: The distance data is taken from CEEPI.

Per Capita GDP differential: Difference between Pakistan's PDGP and Partners' GDP (measured as US$).

Source: Data on per capita GDP is taken from the World Development Indicator (WDI).

5.2.6. List of Countries on the Gravity Panel

A large sample of 98 trade partners from all regions of the world is taken for the analysis. The regional distribution of the selected gravity panel is depicted in the following Table.

5.2.7. Estimation Methodology

Traditionally, classical gravity models have been expressed as single equations using cross sectional data to estimate trade flows between a pair of countries for a particular period (one year). However, the panel data framework provides more useful information vis-à-vis single-equation models and has become increasingly popular since it allows the study of a particular issue at multiple sites with periodical observations over a defined timeframe. Several estimation techniques have been used while using the panel data approach. In particular, the fixed effect and random effect models are the most prominent.

To estimate the empirical model, the only option is to use the Random Effect Model from the available set of Panel data models. The reason is that the study uses several dummies, in such case the only option is to use the Random Effect Model since the Fixed Effect Model discards the dummy variables and estimate rest of the model. However, there is the problem of heteroscedasticity in the Random Effect estimation, when it is applied to the give exports model. The problem is severe and may lead to unbiased results. There are several statistical tools for controlling the heteroscedasticity. One of the possible solution is to use the Feasible Generalized Least Square (FGLS) method instead of Random Effect Model to estimate the given Gravity Model. The results of the FGLS are robust to econometric problem such as multi-collinearity and heteroscedasticity. For instance, Martinez-Zarzoso suggest using FGLS to deal with heteroscedasticity.²

5.2.8. Estimation Results of the Gravity Model

The gravity model estimation results are depicted in the following Table.

² Martinez-Zarzoso , I. (2013): “The log of gravity revisited.” Applied Economics 45(3): pp. 311–327.

As usual, the distance variable carries its expected negative sign and significant coefficient. This indicates that volume of Pakistan's bilateral trade with the trade partners is also subject to distance between Pakistan and trading partners. The result is also consistent with the theory and existing empirical findings according to which bilateral trade between any two countries is also determined by the bilateral distance. The larger the distance, larger will be the transportation and goods shipment costs and therefore, smaller will be the volume of bilateral trade.

The findings also indicate that Pakistani exports are also determined by economic size of both Pakistan and trade partners – measured by GDP of Pakistan and of the trade partners. The reason is that the larger economic size will mean higher GDP volume and higher production. High production which in turn has a positive impact on exports potentials of the economy. A larger size of the partners' economies indicates larger GDP and high production. High domestic production indicates large goods supply to domestic market and also to international market (exports).

The results of estimation indicate that per capita GDP differentials between Pakistan and trade partners has a negative impact on Pakistani exports to partners. This result is consistent with the 'Burenstam-Linder Hypothesis, which postulates an inverse relationship between volume of bilateral international trade and the partner-countries' per capita income differentials. Burenstam Linder (1961) wrote: 'the more similar the demand structure of the two countries the more intensive potentially is the trade between these two countries.' Burenstam Linder suggested that per capita income can be used as a proxy for preferences. The hypothesis can then be tested by comparing per capita income between trading partners. Arnon and Weinblatt (1998) confirm the Linder hypothesis and they find that developing countries also present evidence of a Burenstam Linder effect.³

The results of estimation intimate that bilateral real exchange rate between Pakistan and the trade partners' economies has a negative but small (negligible) effect on Pakistan's exports to its trade partners' economies. The study also investigates the impact of various regional dummies and geographical variables on bilateral exports of Pakistan. The first dummy variable is landlocked. The dummy variable (landlocked) takes the value of 1 if the concerned trade partner is landlocked economy and '0' for the non-landlocked trade partners. The theoretical impact of the landlocked variable on bilateral trade flows is negative. The reason is that in the case of landlocked trade partner, transportation costs of goods shipment are higher as goods are shipped across borders through air means of transportation or land routes. The dummy 'landlocked' carries a negative and significant coefficient, which indicates that the impact of landlocked on predicted exports is negative in case of Pakistan. In other words, the gravity model predicted exports decrease if the concerned trade partner is landlocked, i.e. if it has no sea/costal shore.

The theoretical impact of the dummy variable for common border is positive. Any two neighbouring economies have common cultural and social structure. Therefore, exchange of goods and transaction are easy between two trading partners having adjacent (common) borders. it has a positive impact on bilateral trade of the trading partners. In addition, transportation costs of goods shipment across two neighbouring economies is also low and so the prices of domestic goods in trade partners' economies are relatively lower than that of others (non-neighbouring economies).

The estimated coefficient of dummy (common border) in the gravity model of this study is unexpectedly negative, however, it is small and insignificant. This indicates that Pakistani exports are not determined by border. Common language has a positive impact on Pakistani exports. The possible reason is that bilateral deal for exchange (sale/purchase) among the residents of trade partners is convenient and easy if the trade partners' economies have common language.

The results of estimation indicate that Pakistan's PTA and common colony with the trade partners have no favourable impact on Pakistan's exports to the partners. This result is consistent with Pakistan's existing experience of its PTAs with Iran, Indonesia and Mauritius. However, Pakistan's FTAs with its trade partners' economies have favourable impact on exports flow of Pakistan.

5.2.9. Gravity Predicted Exports Potentials of Pakistan

The primary focus of the gravity model analysis is on identifying the trade partners to whom Pakistan has high scope of increasing exports for the proposed market diversification strategy. The results obtained from the augmented gravity equation (5) is subject to evaluation of the forecasting efficiency. The estimated efficient coefficients are used to evaluate the export potential of Pakistan with the trading partners based on actual and forecasted values of export flow. The export potential is estimated as follows -

$$Exp_{ijt} = \frac{\sum \overline{PEx}_{ijt}}{\sum AEx_{ijt}} \text{-----} (6)$$

Where, $\sum \overline{PEx}_{ijt}$ indicates the gravity predicted exports to the partners' economies, while, $\sum AEx_{ijt}$ indicates Pakistan's actual exports to its trading partners' economies.

The value $Exp_{ijt} > 1$ indicates that the actual export performance is less than predicted, showing untapped potential, whereas the value $Exp_{ijt} < 1$ indicates that the actual export flow is greater than predicted, and showing exhausted potential. The value $Exp_{ijt} = 1$ indicates that both the actual and the predicted values are equal. Using the equation (6), the gravity model predicted potential exports are given as.

*Note: Countries that appear with the ratio (P/A) above 1 indicates that Pakistan's current exports to these economies are lower than the gravity predicted exports, and those that appear with above 1 indicates that Pakistan's current exports are above the gravity predicted exports.

The results indicate that Pakistan has high potential in the non-traditional African economies such as Equatorial G., Chad, Rwanda, Burkina Faso, Burundi, Zambia, Swaziland, Gabon and Mali etc. In addition, there are certain economies to whom, the gravity model does not predict potential exports. These include Congo D.R, Kenya, Mauritius, Tanzania and Djibouti etc.

The study classifies the sample of countries included in the gravity model into Economic Community Groups of the Africa region. Pakistan's exports potentials to each of the RTAs are presented through scatter charts separately for all RTAs.

5.2.10. Scatter Charts of Pakistan's Export Potentials to Africa Community Groups

Scatter Chart for COMESA

Note: Countries that lie below the diagonal line indicates that Pakistan has high potential exports to these economies and with whom Pakistan's trade agreement will have a beneficial outcome for Pakistan, while those that lie above the diagonal line indicate that Pakistan's actual exports is above the gravity predicted exports and thus there are no Pakistan's exports potential to these economies.

The above chart identifies a number of non-traditional trade partners' economies in COMESA regional group of Africa with significant Pakistan's exports potentials. The countries with potential exports include Burundi, Swaziland, Rwanda, Zambia and Malawi etc. This indicates that Pakistan has significant potentials for export market diversification in the Africa region. In addition, the gravity model predicts no potential trade with some of Pakistan's important trade partners such as Kenya and Djibouti etc.

Scatter Chart for SADC Economies

Pakistan's exports potential to SADC economies are presented in the following Chart. As indicated, the study identifies certain economies with potential exports in the SADC region. The countries with potential exports include Swaziland, Malawi, Zambia, Botswana and Angola.

Scatter Plots for Export Potentials to ECOWAS Economies

The study identifies 5 economies with significant Pakistan's exports potential in the ECOWAS economic community group. These include Ghana, Liberia, Mali, Nigeria and Burkina Faso. Additionally, the gravity model does not predict potential exports to other economies of ECOWAS.

Scatter Plots of Potential Exports for WAEMU Economies

Pakistan's export potentials to WAEMU economies are depicted in the following Chart. Out of 7 WAEMU members in the Chart, only two – Mali and Burkina Faso appear to be with significant Pakistan's exports potentials to these economies. The gravity model suggests that rest of the WAEMU members are not significant for exports market diversification.

Scatter Plots of Potential Exports for CEMAC Economies

The gravity model suggests all of the CEMAC members except the Congo Dem. Rep for market diversification of Pakistan's exports.

Scatter Plots of Potential Exports for SACU Economies

The gravity model potential exports to SACU economies are depicted in Figure 5.8. As indicated, 3 out of 4 SACU economies appear with significant Pakistan's exports potentials. Therefore, the study suggests these economies for the proposed export market diversification in the Africa region.

Scatter Plots of Potential Exports for EAC Economies

Exports potential for EAC economies are depicted in the following Figure. As evident, Tanzania, Rwanda and Burundi lie below the diagonal line – indicating that there are untapped Pakistan's exports potential to these economies. Therefore, the study suggests these economies for the proposed market diversification strategy for exports enhancement.
